SCHOOL REPORT.

In compliance with the statutes, we submit the following report:

The schools for the past year, in the main, have been good: some have been excellent. Quite a number of our teachers are those who follow the profession, and consequently have had considerable of experience. In these schools we find a wide contrast, in comparison with those where teachers are employed who are teaching temporarily.

Three things are absolutely necessary to make a school a success: A competent teacher, faithful pupils, and a good sustaining home influence. To parents, we say, visit the schools. Take more interest in them. See that your children are prospering in their studies. Encourage them by assistance at home, and your presence in school. If you employ a person to do ever so small a piece of work you see that it is well done yourself, and yet of how much more importance should it be to you whether the teacher is laying the right foundation for your child's future character.

Tardiness and absence. Your committee would hardly feel that they had done their whole duty without alluding to this great evil to our common schools. Such evidence as our registers show cannot be found on the books of any private school. Such being the fact, it indicates either a lack of interest in the public school, or a lack of knowledge of the evil it produces. It is not the pupil alone, who is fifteen or twenty minutes behind time, that suffers, but the whole school. Who that frequents a public school has not seen the entire number thrown into disorder, by some tardy boy shuffling into the room late, with a great noise of stamping feet, and blowing cold fingers ; from five to ten minutes are lost by the whole school before order is completely restored, and attention given to books. He may be too late for a lesson, and then he is behind his class, and may remain a continual drag on his teacher for the whole term. Absence is but little worse than tardiness. The parents should look to this ; on you the responsibility, in a great measure, rests. It is your money that is either wasted or improved by your child, and what is more important, it is your child's future character which is being moulded for good or bad.

To the scholars themselves we say : On you, to a great extent, depends all you are or hope to be, in school or out. It is by your own untiring efforts, by hard and constant labor and diligent study, that you are to succeed as scholars. There is no paved and graded road for you to travel, but "ever onward and upward" must be your motto while ascending the hill of science. If you attend school for a good time, or spend your time in lounging and day-dreaming, it is worse than wasted, and you had better be at home. Or, what is equally as bad, if you have so many outside amusements and attractions as to absorb your attention, it will do but little good for a teacher to labor with you.

To the teachers we say : Go to the Committee and get a certificate. No matter if, in your own opinion, you are "as wise as Solomon," don't go and commence school till you have shown respect enough to those you look to for assistance through the term, to even present yourselves for examination. Should the law be enforced the past year, a thousand dollars would be withheld from the teachers on this account.

Another important condition of a good school is a good school house. We do not mean some high structure, with flaring windows and gapping doors, but a house neat and in order. Paint and whitewash, soap and water, will sometimes work wonders, both in appearance and sanitary condition. It is said one fourth of all the cases of consumption, that fearful scourge of New England, have their origin in the school-room. The Prudential Committee should see that the house is kept clean and in order, and should advocate such judicious use of paint and whitewash as will make the rooms cheerful and clean. We should also notify the committee of the commencement and close of the school. It is often the case in a back district, the school is in session a week or more before it is known to the committee.

DISTRICT NO. 1.—VILLAGE.

This district has by far the best building and accommodations in town, and everything is conducive to the welfare of the scholars. Neither money nor pains have been spared in erecting a first-class building.

In the spring the committee negotiated with Mr. Charles H. Jones, of Clinton Grove Seminary, to take the entire charge of the schools. The public money was devoted to the summer and winter terms, and the fall term was made a tuition school. In this manner three terms, or thirty-five weeks of schooling, have been secured to the district. The higher department has been managed in a very successful manner, and a good degree of improvement was manifested as the committee visited the school from time to time through the year. The primary scholars were under the instruction of Miss Josie F. Cram. There was not that degree of improvement in this department that we had hoped, and we attribute it to two causes:—there being too many scholars for one teacher, and the work not being properly systematized.

A third school during the winter was taught four hours each day by two scholars from the upper room with as good success as could be expected where a set of scholars are under the instruction of two teachers in the same day. What is needed and what the district will eventually have to do, to derive the benefits they should from their money, is to separate the scholars into three schools and have a regular and graded course of study.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—MOUNTAIN.

Summer Term,—Taught by Miss Mary F. Haseltine. There was a tolerable degree of improvement, and fair order was maintained. In a school of only six weeks nothing very remarkable is looked for. The scholars took a good degree of interest, and if there had been a little more animation on the part of the teacher, the school would have appeared better.

Winter Term of ten weeks, was commenced by Mr. L. F. Bidwell, who taught six weeks and was then obliged to close for several weeks on account of sickness, and the school is now in session. We visited the school twice and at each visit found the school prospering well.

DISTRICT NO 3. SHIRLEY HILL.

Summer Term,—taught by Miss Mary F. Whitney. This being one of the pleasantest schools in town, and being well classified, Miss Whitney had few of those obstacles to contend with that some teachers have. The penmanship of this school is second to none in town, and is deserving of praise. The appearance of the school at each visit was good, and did both teacher and scholars credit.

Miss N. Amanda Wyman taught the winter term. A number one teacher in a number one school, and both working harmoniously. Miss Wyman is a veteran teacher, and is at home in school. The improvement manifested was such as we have seldom seen; twelve out of twenty-three were neither tardy nor absent.

DISTRICT NO. 4. KENNEDY HILL.

Summer and Winter terms taught by Miss Josie Pattee. Miss Pattee has taught four terms in this district before this year, and the district knows how to appreciate a good school by continuing her. This has been a profitable years schooling to the district. The questions were so promptly and correctly answered as to cast great credit on both teacher and scholars. We wish the interest manifested at the close of the summer term would be imitated in other districts in town.

DISTRICT NO. 5. PLUMMER'S.

Miss Martha A. Putnam, teacher both summer and fall terms. Miss Putnam is an experienced teacher, and having taught ten terms in the district before, she came well acquainted with her work, and fully sustained the reputation she gained the year before. We seldom ever saw scholars who understood what they had been over so well as hers.

Winter Term,—N. Amanda Wyman, teacher. It is needless for the Committee to say much in regard to this school. Miss Wyman's name as teacher is sufficient to guarantee a good school. The degree of scholarship exhibited was good, explanations clear, and a correct knowledge of what had been taught. Hard work alone can accomplish such results. An improvement at a small expense might be made to this house, by opening a door directly from the clothes-room to the entryway and closing the entry door. By so doing a great deal of confusion would be avoided in going and coming at recess and intermissions.

DISTRICT NO. 6. CENTER. SOUTH SIDE.

Both summer and winter terms taught by Miss Irene S. Bidwell. Both terms the school was small, being only four in summer and seven in winter. By continual perseverance and energy on the part of the teacher, she managed to keep the scholars interested, and the school this year has been as profitable as such a school could be expected. We question very much the advantage of running so small a school.

DISTRICT NO. 7. EAST.

Summer and fall terms taught by Hattie A. Simonds. The teacher labored for the welfare of the school, but there were some obstacles beyond her control that lessened the improvement. The school is badly classified, and there was a great irregularity in attendance. To drop into school unexpectedly and find only seven out of fifteen, signified a great want of interest.

The Committee did not visit the school during the fall term, not being notified at the commencement and the school closing early. Report says "a good school."

Winter Term,—John P. Brown. This school appeared well at the visits of the committee, and a good degree of interest was manifested at the final examination. We would recommend a little paint and whitewash for the school house.

DISTRICT NO. 8. TIBBETTS HILL.

Summer Term,—Miss Helen A. Johnson. Miss Johnson found this school rather "run down," but she soon found herself the right one in the right place, and the term was a prosperous one. We submit a portion of her report: "The term has passed pleasantly to me; the scholars have tried to do right, and learn all they could, and I think they have had good success. Tommy Taggart had perfect lessons the entire term."

Winter Term,—Mrs. Helen A. Jones, (no change in teacher). This school, though small, appeared well. The teacher evidently labored hard as the result showed. A new blackboard is needed in this school. To the parents of this district we would say, we would like to see your names as visitors to the school at least twice each term, and we hope by that means to avoid some of the tardiness and absence.

DISTRICT NO. 9. CENTER, NORTH SIDE.

Summer Term,—Anna G. Rogers. This is a large school, and it is no easy task for a teacher to manage a school of thirty-six scholars of so many different grades or ages, Miss Rogers labored hard for the welfare of the school, and her examination was one that did her credit. She says: "The school has been a pleasant one. Our object has been to understand what we have been over." We wish the parents would see that their children are more constant in attendance. Out of thirty, six is a small percentage to be in school every day.

Winter Term,—Mrs. H. S. Philbrook. This school, one of the largest in town, and also one of the hardest to manage, needs some remodeling. There are too many pupils of various grades and ages for one person to manage successfully. The school needs to be graded. Mrs. Philbrook established a reputation as a successful teacher, and of such a character and quality much needed in town. The object of the teacher seemed to be to infuse a desire for knowledge into each individual, and held that desire as a prize worthy of "trying for." Another thing we were pleased to see,—the text-books were used as the means not the end of education. No. 6 should be united with this district and establish a graded school.

DISTRICT NO. 10. PATTEE HILL.

Both summer and winter terms were taught by Miss Martha R. Butterfield. She had taught here the summer before, and she knew very well where to begin and what to lay out for her scholars to do. The winter term was a long one and profitable to those who went the entire term. Children had better continue in school through the term than get an idea of leaving when they wish. This year has been a prosperous one in schooling to the district.

DISTRICT NO. 11. PARKER'S.

Summer Term,—Miss Alzira E. Gregg. This teacher reports as having taught twenty-five months before, but her ideas of school teaching were not compatible with the interest of the school. The school demanded more discipline and study and less recreation and amusement.

Fall and Winter Terms,—Miss L. W. Dodge. The fall term was sustained by New Boston money, and was well expended. The winter term was a profitable one. The scholars understood what they came to school for, and accordingly improved their time. The appearance of the school at each visit showed that work was done in "school hours."

DISTRICT NO. 12. PAIGES.

Summer Term,—Miss A. M. McDougall. This was Miss McDougall's first term, and she taught a very good school. The school was very small, and it was difficult to get up a great deal of interest, yet the improvement was commendable.

Winter Term,—George W. Heath. Mr. Heath was faithful and conscientious in the discharge of his duties, trying to do his best for the interest of the school. There was a general desire on the part of the children, and a good degree of improvement was manifest.
